Last of Trunks Prepared For Ocean Voyage

PARIS, Nov. 5 — (UP) — The Duke of Windsor has decided definitely and finally to make his visit to the United States despite newspaper comment that had caused some anxiety, an official spokesman said today.

It was understood that the duke reached his decision after several telephone calls between members of his entourage and representatives in New York.

The duke and duchess spent the morning packing the last of their trunks — she the frocks and furs which she has spent weeks in preparing for her return to her native country; he the smart haberdashery and new suits that replace the Tyrolean hats and leather shorts to which he was partial in the early days of his honeymoon.

"I suppose it will all blow over when we are on the ship," said Lieut. Dudley Forwood, the duke's equerry, discussing the decision to make the visit.

$2,500 Tickets Bought
The duke has $2,500 worth of tickets for his party on the German liner Bremen, in which he and the duchess are to sail from Cherbourg tomorrow.

It was understood that the duke awaited news of American newspaper comment and attacks on his representative, Charles E. Bedaux, an inventor of an industrial efficiency system before making the final decision to leave on schedule for New York and his study of housing for workers.

Today, the duke's big and last official engagement was a luncheon at the British embassy, at which his American born wife was received as his duchess — though not a royal one. He remains a

GIRL, 14, GRANTED MOVIE CONTRACT AT $1,250 WEEK

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 5 — (UP) — With a salary of $1,250 a week at the age of 14, Deanna Durbin today became one of the movies' high-priced youngsters.

She went to court for approval of a new contract more than quadrupling her old $300 a week salary. Universal studios volunteered the raise. The young singer also gets a $10,000 bonus for each picture. The contract runs seven years, and Deanna will earn at least $2,750 a week when she becomes of age.

Because she is a minor, the contract required court approval, which was given by Superior Judge Emmet Wilson.

Freddie Bartholomew came into court a week ago for similar approval of a contract paying him $93,000 a year. He is a year younger than Deanna.

Mayor Exonerates Police Chief of Carter Charges

Republicans Urge Dewey As Nominee

Young New Yorker Backed As Standard-Bearer For G.O.P. in 1940

CHICAGO, Nov. 5 — (UP) — Young Thomas E. Dewey, New York's "racket busting" prosecuting attorney, was boomed today as a 1940 Republican presidential candidate by some of the Republican national committee members.

Rep. Joseph W. Martin, Jr., R. Mass., chairman of the house Republican congressional campaign committee, said Dewey who was elected district attorney of New York over a Tammany Democrat last Tuesday, was "the bright hope of the party right now."

"He's a lead-pipe cinch for governor of New York in 1938 if he goes ahead and does a good job in his present position, and you know as well as I do that if the next governor of New York is a Republican and he has a good administration, he will be the next Republican nominee for president," Martin said.

John D. M. Hamilton, Republican national chairman, praised Dewey's election as "a victory for good government" and added the former Michigan farm boy is "an outstanding example of the young Republican who belongs in the front line trenches during the party's fight back to power."

Several other committee members who requested their names not be used said they believed Dewey might be good presidential timber.

AMANDA TO HAVE COURT FIGHT OVER VOTE ON OPTION

LANCASTER, Nov. 5 — Two Amanda beer retailers plan to fight the vote on local option in court. The vote may be contested in the 15-day period allowed by law.

Pat Johnson, restaurant operator, and S. M. Fisher, grocer, who operate the only beer places in the village, charge that irregularities in the balloting gave the dry forces three more votes than those favoring the sale of 3.2 beer in the township. The vote was 152 against the sale of beer and 149 for the sale.

It was reported that the grounds for the contest would be based on voters being permitted to cast ballots although they were not legally residents of the district.

LEADER OF NAZIS FOUND SUICIDE IN CZECHOSLOVAKIA

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Nov. 5 — (UP) — Heinz Rutha, one of the most prominent of Nazi leaders in the German area of Czechoslovakia, has committed suicide in his jail cell at Bohemisch-Leipa, it was announced today. It was expected that a new flare of anger against Czechoslovakia in Nazi Germany would result.

Rutha was the foreign political expert of the Czechoslovak Nazi party. He had been sent frequently on missions to London and Geneva to state the viewpoint of Nazi Germans living under Czechoslovak rule.

Rutha and 15 other Nazis were arrested at Neichenberg October 7. The arrests started the current bad feeling between Czechoslovakia and Germany.

Today it was announced that prison guards had found Rutha this morning, hanging in his cell from a garter. He was awaiting trial.

"CLAIM OF ABUSE DURING RAID NOT TRUE" — GRAHAM

Effort To Oust McCrady Made On May 6 By Former Main Street Restaurant Man

WITNESSES QUESTIONED
Official Absolved Of Blame By City's Executive

Charges asking dismissal of Police Chief William McCrady, filed last May 6, by Charles T. Carter, former E. Main street restaurant proprietor, had been dismissed Friday by Mayor W. J. Graham.

Mayor Graham announced his finding Thursday evening.

His decision, posted in the city docket, says that "upon careful, complete and due investigation of the charges filed in this matter, and examination of the following witnesses, to wit, Charles T. Carter, Mrs. Charles T. Carter, Charles Blackstone, Elmer Caldwell, George Green, A. H. Shasteen, Howard Sapp, and C. G. Puffinbarger," he finds the charges to be "without merit, and does hereby dismiss said charges and completely exonerate said William McCrady for any and all blame or discredit by reason of, or upon said charges."

Carter contended that at midnight, April 24, or on the morning of April 25, McCrady entered the Silver Grill, and conducted himself in a manner unbecoming an officer in the performance of his duty. He alleged that McCrady used abusive and insulting language.

The charges grew out of a raid conducted by members of the police department. Carter was charged with permitting gambling. His case was passed by the grand jury. Carter contended the persons in his establishment were playing rum.

JAPS LAND MORE SOLDIERS SOUTH OF WAR DISTRICT

SHANGHAI, Nov. 5 — (UP) — Japan is landing a new army on the coast southwest of Shanghai in an effort to drive the Chinese from the strongly fortified Pootung area of the city, across the Whangpoo river from the international settlement.

The plan, according to reliable informants, was to land an overwhelming force just north of Chappoo, on Hangchow bay. Advance units of this new army were ashore now, it was said, and others were ready to disembark from transports.

Chappoo is about 50 miles down the coast from Shanghai. From there, the Japanese would drive rapidly northward along the main and secondary highways and attack in the rear the Chinese who for weeks have blasted the Japanese warships in the Whangpoo, and Japanese forces on the other side of the river, with strong artillery fire.

Flying squads of Chinese machine gunners have been active in the Pootung area. On occasion they go down to the water front, mount their guns in warehouses or on docks, and sweep the decks of the Japanese warships.

ANNA'S DEFENSE CHARGES STATE EVADING ISSUES

Guess Work Used, Counsel For Immigrant Claims, In Final Argument

TRIAL NEARING JURORS
Deliberations Expected To Begin In Evening

CINCINNATI, Nov. 5 — (UP) — A final appeal to the jury to spare the life of Anna Marie Hahn, blonde "angel of mercy," was based today on the defense's contention that the state has failed to prove her guilty of murder.

Joseph Hoodin, defense attorney, charged the prosecution had offered "smoke screen" evidence in its efforts to indict Mrs. Hahn, a German immigrant, of the poison murder of Jacob Wagner, 78. She stands accused of poisoning Wagner and three other old men in an attempt to get their life savings.

"Everything the prosecutor can put before you, every smoke screen he can put before you to stop you from determining the issues in this case, he does," Hoodin pleaded before the jury of eleven women and one man.

Ready for Jury
The case was expected to be given to the jury late today after the state has completed its arguments.

Mrs. Hahn, 31-year-old matron, seemed to pay little attention to Hoodin's arguments, on which rested her fate. She kept her eyes fixed on Prosecuting Attorney Dudley M. Outcalt.

"When the state builds a case on guess work," Hoodin continued, "it is trying to place the responsibility on you, the jury, for taking from Mrs. Hahn that little spark of life."

"Have they told you there was no arsenic in Mr. Wagner's medicine chest? I don't know that"

PRESIDENT WARNS OF SPECULATION ON STOCK MART

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5 — (UP) — President Roosevelt today characterized stock market speculation as "dangerous."

Mr. Roosevelt's stock market comment was presented in the form of a direct quotation which he gave as an answer to a question about his conference in New York City yesterday with Fiorello La Guardia, newly re-elected mayor.

The president said he felt like inventing an aphorism and said reporters might take down his words for direct quotation.

The quotation: "Speculation in news stories is just as dangerous as speculation on the stock exchange."

Asked if he had any plans to make stock investments less dangerous, the president said the situation worked both ways—if it were more dangerous fewer people would engage in the market, and if it were not so dangerous everyone would make money on it.

BOSTON TERRIER HEARS OWN BARK FOR FIRST TIME IN SEVERAL YEARS

NEW YORK, Nov. 5 — (UP) — Duke, a Boston terrier, heard himself bark today for the first time in two years. It was believed that Duke, 12 years old, was the first dog to ever use a mechanical aid to hearing.

Was Missing Girl Kidnaped?

SHIRLEY LOVE AND FATHER

DEPARTMENT of justice agents have launched a search for six-year-old Shirley Love of Dayton, Ohio, reported kidnaped from her school. According to the girl's grandmother, who had taken her to school, an unidentified boy of high school age called for the child at school and took her away on pretext her parents wanted to see her. The parents, Edward Love of Dayton, and Florence Love Ryer, of Cleveland and Columbus, are estranged.

Rhode Island Collegians Abduct Connecticut Foe

STORRS, Conn., Nov. 5 — (UP) — Julius Groher, Connecticut State college senior and "mayor" of Storrs, was "kidnaped" early today by a band of Rhode Island state college students.

The entire student body was aroused by the clanging of a huge bell atop the armory and posses of Connecticut cars started off for Kingston, R. I., to retrieve Groher and a companion, who also was abducted.

Connecticut State and Rhode Island State meet in a traditional football game tomorrow at Kingston.

Groher, elected 10 days ago as chief executive of this college community, was nabbed as he emerged from the Alpha Phi fraternity house. With him was Israel Rosenzweig, Meriden.

Several Rhode Island students pounced on him and Rosenzweig, bundled them into an automobile, and conveyed by "at least four or five other cars," according to witnesses, the kidnap auto sped toward Rhode Island.

The alarm was sounded immediately. An enterprising student climbed to the top of the armory and banged away violently at the "Victory Bell."

Within a few minutes—the bell also is rung for fire volunteers in this isolated community—the campus was crowded with students and members of the faculty.

Posses were organized swiftly, cars were commandeered, and the chase began.

Students were said to be determined either to recover Groher and Rosenzweig, or in retaliation for the "insult," kidnap Rameses II, the Rhode Island state mascot.

An escape of some sort usually occurs on the eve of the Connecticut-Rhode Island game.

Kidnaped students or livestock usually are returned to their respective institutions a few minutes before game-time.

JAPAN CONSIDERS WAR DECLARATION AGAINST CHINESE

TOKYO, Nov. 5 — (UP) — Army and navy authorities are divided on the question of issuing a formal declaration of war against China, it was reported today.

Navy authorities were represented as urging a declaration. Army men were said to oppose one strongly, arguing that it might complicate Japan's foreign trade and diplomatic situation.

Reports were that those in favor of a declaration seemed gaining support, and that they wanted to declare war in connection with the formation of a supreme imperial headquarters to dictate all matters of war policy.

Nazi Chief Calls Leading Government Officials To Talk Advisability

CHINESE GENERAL BUSY

Fa Li-Tsiang Discusses War With Blomberg

BERLIN, Nov. 5 — (UP) — Fuehrer Adolph Hitler has called a conference of leaders to consider the advisability of direct German efforts to mediate in the Chinese-Japanese war, it was said today in well informed quarters.

It was learned that Hitler intended to see this afternoon Baron Konstantin Von Neurath, foreign minister; Gen. Hermann Goering, air minister; Marshall Werner Von Blomberg, war minister, and Gen. Admiral Erich Raeder, commander-in-chief of the navy. It was believed that they would discuss the mediation idea.

Blomberg was reported to have talked yesterday to Chinese Gen. Pa Li-Tsiang, who was on his way to the Brussels nine-power treaty conference.

Early Offer Expected
Talk in well-informed circles was optimistic and it was said that an early offer of German mediation might be expected. The possibility was even discussed of a suspension of hostilities in China, within a week or 10 days. Any mediation would ignore the current Brussels conference called for the same purpose.

It was denied at both the Chinese and Japanese embassies that Germany had yet made any offer of mediation, and reports that not only had the offer been made but that China and Japan had both replied favorably, were reported in government quarters to be in the nature of a diplomatic trial balloon, intended to sound sentiment abroad.

But it was said that Hitler seemed to Germans to be in a more advantageous situation than any other leading statesmen to mediate, particularly because of

CAMBRIDGE JAIL HAS TWO GUESTS WHO LIKE CELLS

CAMBRIDGE, Nov. 5 — (UP) — Officials of the Guernsey county jail here had two satisfied customers on their hands today and didn't know how to get rid of them.

Both Stanley and Jimmie Malesski have been in jail for two weeks and the longer they stay the better they like it. Stanley is 13 and Jimmie is 7.

They think the jail is just "swell." They were locked up when state police arrested their brother, Henry, 19, as a suspect in the theft of four automobiles.

Several days ago Springfield, O., authorities took Henry to Springfield where the thefts were supposed to have occurred. Henry said his parents in Eccles, W. Va., would call for the two boys in a few days.

But they never came. Jail officials began to worry, but not Jimmie and Stanley.

"Golly Neds," Jimmie said, "what more could a feller want. We don't need to make believe any more. We got a real jail of our own with a fellow standing around wearing shiny badges and carrying a gun. This is a lot better than the movies."

The authorities said in a couple of days they'd send someone to Eccles to try to find the parents.

The entire student body was aroused by the clanging of a huge bell atop the armory and posses of Connecticut cars started off for Kingston, R. I., to retrieve Groher and a companion, who also was abducted.

Connecticut State and Rhode Island State meet in a traditional football game tomorrow at Kingston.

Groher, elected 10 days ago as chief executive of this college community, was nabbed as he emerged from the Alpha Phi fraternity house. With him was Israel Rosenzweig, Meriden.

Several Rhode Island students pounced on him and Rosenzweig, bundled them into an automobile, and conveyed by "at least four or five other cars," according to witnesses, the kidnap auto sped toward Rhode Island.

The alarm was sounded immediately. An enterprising student climbed to the top of the armory and banged away violently at the "Victory Bell."

Within a few minutes—the bell also is rung for fire volunteers in this isolated community—the campus was crowded with students and members of the faculty.

Posses were organized swiftly, cars were commandeered, and the chase began.

Students were said to be determined either to recover Groher and Rosenzweig, or in retaliation for the "insult," kidnaped Ramesses II, the Rhode Island state mascot. An escape of some sort usually occurs on the eve of the Connecticut-Rhode Island game.

Kidnaped students or livestock usually are returned to their respective institutions a few minutes before game-time.

JAPAN CONSIDERS WAR DECLARATION AGAINST CHINESE

TOKYO, Nov. 5 — (UP) — Army and navy authorities are divided on the question of issuing a formal declaration of war against China, it was reported today.

Navy authorities were represented as urging a declaration. Army men were said to oppose one strongly, arguing that it might complicate Japan's foreign trade and diplomatic situation. Reports were that those in favor of a declaration seemed gaining support, and that they wanted to declare war in connection with the formation of a supreme imperial headquarters to dictate all matters of war policy.

Fa Li-Tsiang Discusses War With Blomberg

BERLIN, Nov. 5 — (UP) — Fuehrer Adolf Hitler has called a conference of leaders to consider the advisability of direct German efforts to mediate in the Chinese-Japanese war, it was said today in well informed quarters.

It was learned that Hitler intended to see this afternoon Baron Konstantin Von Neurath, foreign minister; Gen. Hermann Goering, air minister; Marshall Werner Von Blomberg, war minister, and Gen. Admiral Erich Raeder, commander-in-chief of the navy. It was believed that they would discuss the mediation idea.

Blomberg was reported to have talked yesterday to Chinese Gen. Fa Li-Tsiang, who was on his way to the Brussels nine-power treaty conference.

Early Offer Expected

Talk in well-informed circles was optimistic and it was said that an early offer of German mediation might be expected. The possibility was even discussed of a suspension of hostilities in China within a week or 10 days. Any mediation would ignore the current Brussels conference called for the same purpose.

It was denied at both the Chinese and Japanese embassies that Germany had yet made any offer of mediation, and reports that not only had the offer been made but that China and Japan had both replied favorably were reported in government quarters to be in the nature of a diplomatic trial balloon, intended to sound sentiment abroad.

But it was said that Hitler seemed to Germans to be in a more advantageous situation than any other leading statesmen to mediate, particularly because of (Continued on Page Ten)

CAMBRIDGE JAIL HAS TWO GUESTS WHO LIKE CELLS

CAMBRIDGE, Nov. 5 — (UP) — Officials of the Guernsey county jail here had two satisfied customers on their hands today and didn't know how to get rid of them.

Both Stanley and Jimmie Maleski have been in jail for two weeks and the longer they stay the better they like it. Stanley is 13 and Jimmie is 7.

"They think the jail is just 'swell'. They were locked up when state police arrested their brother, Henry, 19, as a suspect in the theft of four automobiles.

Several days ago Springfield, O., authorities took Henry to Springfield where the thefts were supposed to have occurred. Henry said his parents in Eccles, W. Va., would call for the two boys in a few days.

But they never came. Jail officials began to worry, but not Jimmie and Stanley.

"Golly Neds," Jimmie said, "what more could a feller want. We don't need to make believe any more. We got a real jail of our own with a fellow standing around wearing shiny badges and carrying a gun. This is a lot better than the movies."

The authorities said in a couple of days they'd send someone to Eccles to try to find the parents.

Hoover's Suggestion For Off-Year Convention Draws Attention

JOHN HAMILTON PRESIDES

Landon, Knox, Vandenberg, Borah Oppose Idea

CHICAGO, Nov. 5 — (UP) — The Republican National committee convened today to draft plans for restoring the party to power, in an atmosphere vibrant with reports of a furious behind-the-scenes struggle for party control. Principal order of business — the one around which the struggle appeared to revolve — was the proposal of former President Herbert Hoover for an "off-year" national convention.

There were strong indications that a decision on the "Hoover plan" will be deferred. Instead a "policy" committee probably will be appointed, with the idea that a national meeting will be called later.

Mr. Hoover made his proposal last August, in a magazine article emphasizing the need of fusing youth, independents, bolting Democrats, and anti-New Dealers into a strong political unit. Less than two weeks ago the United Press surveyed committee members and found only four out of 62 definitely opposed to the plan.

Opponents in Action
Then in the two days immediately preceding the meeting, some of the most influential members of the party unloaded a bombardment of statements which practically crushed the movement to inaugurate an immediate and favorable decision.

Prominent among them was Alf M. Landon of Kansas, 1936 presidential candidate, saying he did not believe 1938 an "opportune" time for such a meeting.

Landon's statement was regarded in Washington, at least, as a bold stratagem in a bitter contest for the right to guide party policies.

Effect of the statements by Landon and other influential leaders was a crystallization of opposition sentiment. Although, the most outspoken opponents are not members of the committee, the overpowering influence of their sentiment appeared to have forced the committee to switch its plans.

John D. M. Hamilton, national chairman, 1936 campaign manager, and hitherto principal supporter of the Hoover plan on the committee, said last night he did not believe the committee should "at this time" set a time and place for the interim meeting.

Motivating influences in this abrupt change in committee sentiment appeared the statements of six leading party members: Landon; Col. Frank Knox, Landon's 1936 running mate; Sen. Ar-

Committee Suggested
Hamilton told a press conference that "appointment of a policy committee of 75 or 100 members should be the first step looking toward a later national meeting."

"I don't think the committee can fix a time or place now but that this should be delayed until the policy committee finishes its work," he said. "Then we can call another meeting of the committee and decide on when and where to hold the meeting."

MANTLE SPEAKS ON EVANGELISM AS PASTORS MEET

The Rev. W. N. Mantle, of Mt. Sterling, presented a paper on the "Objectives in Evangelism," at the meeting of Methodist ministers of Pickaway county, held Thursday at the Circleville Methodist Episcopal church. A discussion of the subject followed.

Arrangements were completed by the pastors for the country-wide lecture course to be presented in the Circleville church on Nov. 14, 15, 16 and 17 by Dr. Rollin H. Walker of Ohio Wesleyan university. Members of all Methodist churches of the county and members of other denominations are invited to attend the lecture series.

The Rev. Herman A. Sayre, announced a meeting of Circleville pastors would be held Friday afternoon to discuss arrangements for the union Thanksgiving service.

thur Vandenberg, Mich., frequently mentioned as a presidential candidate in 1940; Sen. William E. Borah, Idaho, veteran insurgent; Rep. Joseph H. Martin, Jr., Mass., chairman of the house congressional campaign committee, and Sen. John G. Townsend, Del., chairman of the senate campaign committee.

Committee Suggested

Hamilton told a press conference that "appointment of a policy committee of 75 or 100 members should be the first step looking toward a later national meeting."

"I don't think the committee can fix a time or place now but that this should be delayed until the policy committee finishes its work," he said. "Then we can call another meeting of the committee and decide on when and where to hold the meeting."

KARL HERRMANN WRITES OF HIS TRIP TO EUROPE

Washington Street Man and Father Expected Home
After Journey

MANY PLACES VISITED

Six Days in Paris Provide
Interesting Tours

Editor's Note:
The following interesting letter was received from Karl J. Herrmann, who is expected home this week-end after a trip through part of Europe with his father, David Herrmann, of Chillicothe. The letter was written Oct. 29 in Germany.

It seems that the one thing I haven't had time to do is find time to write you, but I am going to start. When I finish is something else.

It seems like an age since landing at LeHavre, but the time my father and I have been in Europe
has not been wasted.

To give you a picture of the territory we have covered and what we have done, it is best to start in Paris.

First of all I must say that the French government handled the American Legion Pilgrimage very efficiently. For instance, before landing at LeHavre each passenger was given his card telling what train to take after landing,
car and seat number, also his hotel
in Paris, and what number bus to take to arrive at the hotel.

Three Warfield Trips
As there were three warfield trips each one had a different time and place of starting, and this information was given fully so all
a person needed to do was follow
the information and he had no trouble.

We arrived in Paris about 11
p. m. on one of the two special trains bringing the 700 or more passengers from the S. S. Washington, including Don Doherty, the new national commander of the American Legion. This was on Thursday, Sept. 30. On October 1 in the afternoon we visited Versailles, the scene of the signing of the great Versailles treaty. Saturday was the day for our trip to Chateau Thierry. Our first stop was the American cemetery at Belleau Woods. Here the American government has erected a beautiful memorial to those who made the supreme sacrifice, and here also are buried 2,288 American soldiers who made the sacrifice.

From here we went to the Aisne-Marne Memorial overlooking Chateau Thierry. This is a beautiful monument which was dedicated on Oct. 7.

After lunch at Chateau Thierry
we went to the Oise-Aisne cemetery Pere-Eu-Pardenois where 6-012 Americans are buried. From here we made a visit to Kermit Roosevelt's grave near Chamery
before returning to Chateau Thierry for dinner.

This was a long day of travel,
but everyone felt well paid for the time spent even though we did not return to Paris until 11 o'clock.

Sunday was a day of rest if a rest was needed, so that is what we did. We did not even go to church for we knew a long trip was ahead of us for Monday when we journeyed to Tours. A special train carried 600 or 700 pilgrims to Tours. This party included the Miami, Fla., drum corps.

Greeted at Tours
We were greeted by thousands when we reached Tours at 11 o'clock, and after several musical numbers by the drum corps we went to the hotel for lunch, just one of those five-course French lunches with plenty of wine that fills every cavity.

After lunch we boarded buses
which took us through the chateau section of France to Blois, and here was really a grand reception.
It seemed that every man, woman and child was out to greet the American group.

The first stop was the Chateau de Blois where prominent city officials met us and escorted the pilgrimage through the chateau to the main hall where champagne
flowed freely.

After a march down town, a banquet was held in the armory and again a delicious meal was served in four courses with the usual refreshments. Even at a late hour hundreds waited outside the armory to say "goodbye" to the Americans. It was really a "from the heart" reception.

The next big spot of the Paris reception was the banquet at the Invalids on Tuesday noon. Here were gathered all the notables including Marshal Petain, and at least 400 guests. A sumptuous lunch was served and I never in my life saw so much wine and champagne. There were two bottles of wine for each person and
at least one bottle of champagne.

It was really a reception, one that
no one can ever forget.
During all this time my father and I had not time to visit the Exposition, and the pace was beginning to tell so we took time out Wednesday afternoon during the rain to visit the Exposition. With 250 acres of land full of everything

THE OLD HOME TOWN By STANLEY

imaginable to see you know we didn't see half of it, but we can say we were at the Paris Expon-sition.

The German and Russian buildings are outstanding and are located in the most prominent place at the Exposition. At night the fountains with the spectacular lighting effects are very impressive. Just too much to see here to even start writing about.

See Clock Strike 12
After those six hectic days we were ready to move along so we left Paris Thursday morning for Strausberg. Here we visited the noted cathedral, saw the clock strike 12, which is worth anybody's time to see, and then crossed the Rhine into Germany.

One thing that should be noted
here was the courteous treatment received leaving France and entering Germany. It seems that they are glad that tourists are visiting their country and with such courteous treatment we were glad to be with them.

Since Allmannsweier, the town
my father lives in was only 35 kilometers from Kiel we were back home at 5 p. m. It wasn't long until my father met one of his boy-hood friends and then "all was well". Unfortunately for my father, of the three who are still here one of them has been sick in bed for nine weeks, another fell off
a wagon last week, and is in bed with a bruised head, so the other is our constant companion.

Living in this German village of 800 for over a week I can readily appreciate why Germans are frugal, why they are industrious, and why they can do so much with so little. Work is really all they know for from morning until night the young and the old are in the fields and there seems to be no "dissension in the ranks" for they are happy at work. Real people these Germans.

Go to Switzerland

Leaving out further details of the German villages and the habits of the German people, I will take you to Switzerland where we spent several days. We went to Zurich by electric train. Within a half hour after reaching Zurich my father and I were in an automobile heading toward Lucerne. And what a trip this was. I know the only way to believe a description of Switzerland is to see it, for I never saw such green grass in all my life. It grew everywhere even to the top of the mountains, and from Zurich to Lucerne. I'll bet
there weren't two acres of land that had been cultivated, just grass, grass, grass, and mountains. It really is not describable and if I used a lot of superlative adjectives you'll think I'm seeing green, but it's a fact. Too much cannot be said of the beauty of Switzerland.

Zurich is the largest and I presume the busiest city in Switzerland. It is clean, looks very much American, and has much business traffic. At Lucerne, the large hotels are now closing for the Winter. From Lucerne we journeyed to several other cities of interest.
On Sunday afternoon we went to Friedrichshafen by boat, and saw the new Zeppelin LS 130 now being built. I never expected to see the home of the Zeppelin, but since we were so close we couldn't stay away. The ship is really immense to look at in the hangar where it is being built. It is only 795 feet long and 135 high and if that isn't life-size. You should see the smokestack outside the hang-
ar. It looks like a toothpick.

Through Black Forest
Returning to Koustanz by boat

Sunday evening, we could see the snow-covered Alps and in addition to that we witnessed a beautiful sunset on Boden sea. On Monday morning we left Koustanz by train through Singen to Offenburg which means a trip through the Black forest. With a beautiful sunshine and a clear day no finer scenery is available than the deep valleys, the high hills, with Fall colors interspersed with evergreen provide.

This brings us back to Allmansweier and I believe you will agree with me that myself and my father, who is 75, have covered some territory.

We leave here Friday for a trip
up the Rhine, a day in Cologne,
then to Hamburg for several days before sailing on Oct. 28 to New York. So I'll be seeing you about
Nov. 6.

Regards,
KARL

Postoffice Business at Ashville Shows Climb

By S. D. FRIDLEY
Phone Ashville 79

According to Postmaster Stanley Smith, business at the Ash-ville postoffice for the month of October was real brisk. Four hundred and two (402) money orders and the value of these orders was $2755.17 and the fees collected for them, $36.95. Cash received for sale of stamps, $290.81. Fifty money orders were paid and thirty special delivery letters received.

We do not have the exact figures at hand, but it is an almost-guess that the business at the local office for this October just passed, is much in excess of
that of a year ago.

KARL HERRMANN WRITES OF HIS TRIP TO EUROPE

Six Days in Paris Provide
Interesting Tours

Editor's Note: The following interesting letter was received from Karl J. Herrmann, who is expected home this week-end after a trip through part of Europe with his father, David Herrmann, of Chillicothe. The letter was written Oct. 29 in Germany.

imaginable to see you know we didn't see half of it, but we can say we were at the Paris Exposition.

The German and Russian buildings are outstanding and are located in the most prominent place at the Exposition. At night the fountains with the spectacular lighting effects are very impressive. Just too much to see here to even start writing about it.

See Clock Strike 12
After those six hectic days we were ready to move along so we left Paris Thursday morning for Strasbourg. Here we visited the noted cathedral, saw the clock strike 12, which is worth anybody's time to see, and then crossed the Rhine into Germany.

One thing that should be noted here was the courteous treatment received leaving France and entering Germany. It seems that they are glad that tourists are visiting their country and with such courteous treatment we were glad to be with them.

Since Allmannsweier, the town my father lives in was only 35 kilometers from Kiel we were back home at 5 p. m. It wasn't long until my father met one of his boyhood friends and then "all was well". Unfortunately for my father, of the three who are still here one of them has been sick in bed for nine weeks, another fell off a wagon last week, and is in bed with a bruised head, so the other is our constant companion.

Living in this German village of 800 for over a week I can readily appreciate why Germans are frugal, why they are industrious, and why they can do so much with so little. Work is really all they know for from morning until night the young and the old are in the fields and there seems to be no "dissension in the ranks" for they are happy at work. Real people these Germans.

Go to Switzerland

Leaving out further details of the German villages and the habits of the German people, I will take you to Switzerland where we spent several days. We went to Zurich by electric train. Within a half hour after reaching Zurich my father and I were in an automobile heading toward Lucerne. And what a trip this was. I know the only way to believe a description of Switzerland is to see it, for I never saw such green grass in all my life. It grew everywhere even to the top of the mountains, and from Zurich to Lucerne. I'll bet there weren't two acres of land that had been cultivated, just grass, grass, grass, and mountains. It really is not describable and if I used a lot of superlative adjectives you'll think I'm seeing green, but it's a fact. Too much cannot be said of the beauty of Switzerland.

Zurich is the largest and I presume the busiest city in Switzerland. It is clean, looks very much American, and has much business traffic. At Lucerne, the large hotels are now closing for the winter. From Lucerne we journeyed to several other cities of interest.

On Sunday afternoon we went to Friedrichshafen by boat and saw the new Zeppelin LS 130 now being built. I never expected to see the home of the Zeppelin, but since we were so close we couldn't stay away. The ship is really immense to look at in the hangar where it is being built. It is only 795 feet long and 135 high and if that isn't life-size. You should see the smokestack outside the hangar. It looks like a toothpick.

Through Black Forest
Returning to Koustanz by boat

Sunday evening, we could see the snow-covered Alps and in addition to that we witnessed a beautiful sunset on Boden sea. On Monday morning we left Koustanz by train through Singen to Offenburg which means a trip through the Black forest. With a beautiful sunshine and a clear day no finer scenery is available than the deep valleys, the high hills, with Fall colors interspersed with evergreen provide.

This brings us back to Allmannsweier and I believe you will agree with me that myself and my father, who is 75, have covered some territory.

We leave here Friday for a trip up the Rhine, a day in Cologne, then to Hamburg for several days before sailing on Oct. 28 to New York. So I'll be seeing you about Nov. 6.

Regards,
KARL

Postoffice Business at Ashville Shows Climb

By S. D. FRIDLEY
Phone Ashville 79

According to Postmaster Stanley Smith, business at the Ashville postoffice for the month of October was real brisk. Four hundred and two (402) money orders were written for the month and the value of these orders was $2755.17 and the fees collected for them, $36.95. Cash received for sale of stamps, $290.81. Fifty money orders were paid and thirty special delivery letters received.

We do not have the exact figures at hand, but it is an almost sure guess that the business at the local office for this October just passed, is much in excess of that of a year ago.

Constables Listed

We got our figures mixed, wires crossed or something, in naming the two Harrison township constables elect. They are John Baker and Amos Hollenback.

Cummins in Market

Walter Cummins purchased this week fourteen head of baby beef steers, eight from Ed. L. Runkle with an average weight of about 750 pounds and six with a weight of around 875 pounds from Calvin M. Scothorn. They were purchased for the Columbus market.

Dougherty Goes Home

Ralph Dougherty, who has been here for the last few weeks from McCracken, Kansas, trying out as a bookkeeper at the Scioto Grain Company elevator, will go back home to Kansas this week. His parents are in poor health and his assistance is needed there. Maybe at some later time he can come to make this his home. Seymour Millar is doing "pinch-hit" weighing at the elevator until permanent help is found.

Widow Hunted

Federal officers were here yesterday from West Virginia hunting for a lady whose husband was killed on government work. She is entitled to a pension and it was this they were having her make application for.

Brothers to Preach

Rev. James Hicks, Groveport, pastor of the Ashville Church of Christian Union, announces that two young brothers will deliver the morning and evening sermons in the church Sunday evening, Morton Dorsey, 14, of Winchester, Ohio, will deliver the message at the morning service at 10:30 and his 21-year-old brother, Rev. John Dorsey will preach in the evening at 7:30. The two Morton sisters accompany these two young men and assist in the singing.

Declamation Contest

The Prince of Peace Declamation contest will be held at the local United Brethren church next Sunday evening, beginning at 7:30. The following Ashville high school boys and girls will take part in the contest: Warren Hoffman, Wilma Crager, Florence Smith, and Edna Hunt. The winner will receive a bronze medal from the Ohio Council of Churches and will represent the local high school in the county contest to be held early next month. More than 500 churches in the state will hold similar contests Sunday evening.

Sale Saturday

Beginning Saturday at the noon hour, many of the personal effects of the late Joseph Roof will be offered at public sale at the corner of Station and Randolph streets.

Personal Items

The truant officer and the juvenile officer visited the Ashville school Wednesday.

Prof. C. A. Higley took the agriculture class of boys out to Roger Hedges farm, Thursday, to show them his corn husker and corn drier.

The Athletic Association of the A.H.S. held their first meeting, Thursday afternoon from 2:00-2:30. During that time they elected officers for the year. The following were elected: Elmer Mallory, President; Bernard Walden, Vice President; Caroline Kuhlwein Secretary-Treasurer.

P. T. A. to Meet

The Parent-teacher Association of Ashville announces that its next meeting will be held on Thursday evening, Nov. 18, instead of 25th which is Thanksgiving.

OPEN LETTERS

TO LUTHERANS

FOLK: There is no need for me to urge you to participate in the celebration scheduled for Sunday in which the 125th anniversary of Lutheranism in Pickaway county will be observed. Every member of the congregation will be in the proper place when the morning service begins. All will remain during the day. It is wonderful for an organization to have served a community for 125 years, and the service that your congregation has provided has meant much to the success of the city and county. Lutherans will be present from many parts of Ohio to participate in the service, which, I am sure, will be of interest to all. Congratulations go to Dr. G. J. Troutman and his son and assistant, the Rev. G. L. Troutman, for the splendid work they are doing, and to the congregation for the support it is giving its pastors.

CIRCUITEER.

TO BUSINESSMEN

MERCHANTS: The request of the Chamber of Commerce that concession stands in next Fall's Pumpkin Show be placed back to back in the center of the street should receive serious consideration by the show society. After all, the merchants of our city should have a very loud voice in just how the annual festival should be conducted. It is pointed out that curbs would remain open so that visitors to the show would be enabled to see store windows without going from corner to corner in order to pass from the middle of the street to the business houses. The plan bears merit and deserves official attention. The civic organization took additional steps to keep the Pumpkin Show the third week in October by adopting a resolution against setting earlier dates. The weather this year was bad, but there is nothing to keep it from being just as disagreeable the first of October as the third. The celebration is conducted for the benefit of all. Circleville merchants donate much money to finance it, and they should be consulted before anything definite is done about any radical changes in the festival.

CIRCUITEER.

TO MAYOR-ELECT CADY

OFFICIAL: You deserve congratulations for the splendid showing you made in Tuesday's election. On Jan. 1 you will begin a two-year term as Circleville's No. 1 citizen, and I hope you much success. Your statement, issued Wednesday after your election was assured, was very pleasing to all your constituents. You thanked Democratic and Republican friends for aiding you in your election, and rightfully, because many members of both parties came to your assistance. But it was not this statement that pleased the citizens of Circleville so much. Your pledge for economy and efficiency will be remembered by all who read it. Circleville hopes you will give it an administration that will be remembered for many years. You should exercise care in selection of your safety and service directors, because they have important duties. You are assured co-operation of your council and of other city officials who will serve with you. Hopes for a successful administration are high.

CIRCUITEER.

TO SPORTSMEN

NIMRODS: The first event of the Pickaway County Bird Dog club's annual Fall field trials was run Friday. More events are scheduled for Saturday and Sunday. The trials are being held near Yellowbud. Few Circleville residents, except those connected with sportsmen's organizations, realize what fine trials this organization presents. Outstanding bird dogs from throughout Ohio and nearby states participate in the various events. If you are interested in fine hunting dogs it is well worth your time to attend the trials. The club is to be congratulated for its fine exhibitions. The success of the trials is shown clearly by the increasing entry lists.

CIRCUITEER.

TO WALKER BAUGHMAN

FRIEND: The thousands of persons who have been your theatre's patrons for many years were pleased to learn of your remodeling and redecoration program. The Grand Theatre is known throughout central Ohio. It has offered some of the finest stage shows ever available, including John Vogel's and Al. G. Field's presentations. It has always tried to provide the best in motion pictures. You are making a wise investment in installing new seats, a new lobby, restrooms and other improvements.

CIRCUITEER.

TO CIVIC ORGANIZATIONS

MEMBERS: Committees of the American Legion are making plans for the observance of Armistice Day next Thursday. A parade will be staged and members of fraternal, civic and patriotic organizations are asked to participate. They should take part in the activities and assist the Legion in presenting a fitting observance. In past years some of the organizations have given very little co-operation. Legionnaires have taken an active part in civic programs and they deserve the assistance of Circleville organizations for their Armistice day parade and the activities in Memorial hall following the parade.

CIRCUITEER.

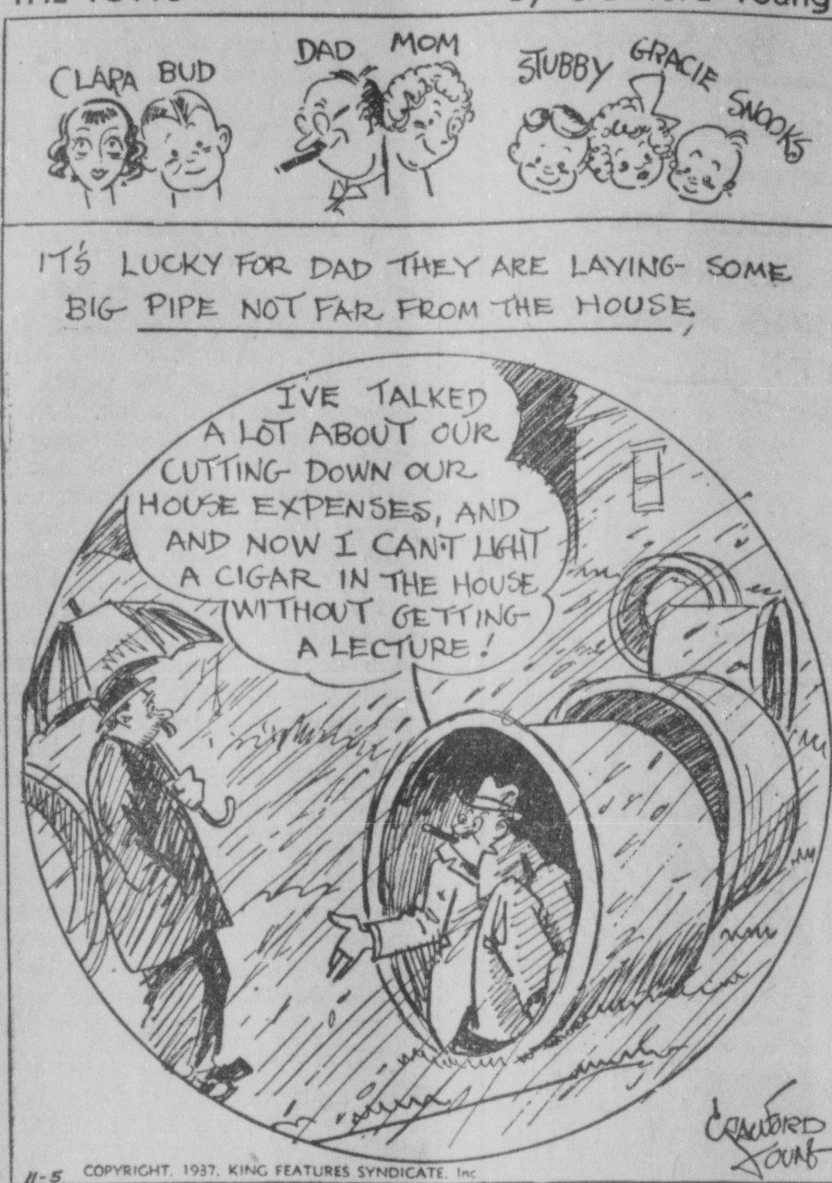

TO PARENTS

CITIZENS: Circleville's children enjoyed their Halloween celebration last week-end in a much more quiet manner than they have in many years, but there remains today much evidence of the work of a few. It is the paraffin that can be found on many residence and store windows throughout the city. You should make every effort to prevent your children from "soaping" with paraffin. It is difficult to remove once applied to glass. Not only does paraffin leave a streak, but so often it has been dropped to the ground with a result that stones imbedded in it oftentimes scratch windowpanes.

Pilot Is Tested Before He Takes to Air

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

I KNOW a man who was a good enough aviator during the war to be appointed an instructor, who refused to fly a plane today even for short distances under the best of weather conditions. His attitude gets support from such an experienced flight surgeon as Dr. Isaac Jones in his interesting book, "Flying Vistas," just published. "The veteran transport pilot of 1937," writes Dr. Jones, "with his plane loaded with passengers and mail and express, steers a course that would have been confusing to any pilot of the war era. Any war aviator who has not progressed with his flying, cannot pilot the modern commercial transport plane."

Dr. Clendingen

For this responsible work, the candidate for pilot must pass a rigid examination as to his physical fitness, particularly as regards his eyes and ears. One experienced pilot said, "The engine quit on me at 10,000 feet. I saw below me a nice green field. But I want you cadets to know that it takes a long time to come down 10,000 feet, and by the time I got near it, the green field had grown up into a forest."

The aviator, you can see, has to develop all sorts of visual accomplishments that are unknown to people in the ordinary walks of life. He gets a depth perception test. Facing a box about 200 feet away, he holds two strings which

move a rod back and forth inside the box. There is also a stationary rod in the box, and the test consists in pulling the movable rod back or forth until it is exactly opposite the stationary one. It is hard to do, but practice helps.

Need Eyes to Penetrate Fog
What we ought to do is to develop eyes that will penetrate fog, and see the mountains behind it, as the infra red rays do.

Ears tests on the pilot have more to do with that part of the ear that has control over the sense of equilibrium. As a matter of fact, in the evolutionary sense, that part of the ear is the oldest. The most primitive ear we find in the animal kingdom is a little sack with a stone in it, rolling about on sensitive hairs. For millions of years, animals in the primeval seas could sense motion but they could not hear. This part of the primitive ear evolved into our semicircular canals, the sense organ of equilibrium and of knowledge of what position the body is in space. Did you ever stop to think that even with your eyes closed you know whether you are lying down or standing up, or standing on your head? You have always taken that for granted, but it is performed by a very delicate and intricate mechanism.

That mechanism must be perfect in the aviator. It is tested by the turning chair. If you are whirled in one direction with the eyes shut, 10 turns in 20 seconds, and then open your eyes, they should jerk sideways for about 24 seconds. This jerking is called "nystagmus" and is perfectly normal. If it does not occur, the flight surgeon knows that the candidate will not be able to recognize his position in space, and therefore will be a dangerous pilot.

DEAD RECKONING

By BRUCE HAMILTON

CHAPTER 46

AS TIM awaited the fatal hour, the hands of the clock crept round. At 20 to 10 Tim could stand it no longer. He had suddenly discovered an excuse for action. If the thing was to come to a collision with the back of his car it was necessary that there should be tire marks leading down the lane; it would not do just to back the car up from the front gate of The Wilderness.

He put on his hat and coat and returned to the garage, thrust the wire and stakes, together with a heavy mallet, into the back of the car, and drove out. He turned down the lane, speeded a couple of hundred yards along the road from Westbourne, and then made the circuit so as to enter Box lane from the Broadstock road. He drove down the lane very slowly, and pulled up at the point he had decided.

It was now five to 10, and he thought he could get to work. He took his gear out of the car and switched off the lights.

The work did not take him long. The earth on the banks took the stakes easily and held them firmly. He hammered them in nearly a foot without striking rock. The wire was now stretched taut across the roadway at a height of rather over a foot from the ground. By the light of his torch it was plainly visible at a dozen yards' distance, but not obvious unless one was looking for it. Tim kicked it once or twice. It yielded an inch or two, but showed no sign of giving way. He returned to the car, turned out the lights, and sat down at the driving wheel in the dark.

Twice he struck matches to look at his watch. Five minutes past 10. . . . Twelve minutes past. The air was very still; it was likely that the sound of the bicycle would make itself heard in time to give ample warning. Seventeen minutes past; due now.

Tim began to bite his nails with anxiety. Suppose Adams was really drunk, had sense enough to know it, and was going carefully? . . . Or suppose there was something wrong with his bike, he hadn't taken it, was walking home, or worse, getting a lift?

There were a dozen possible slips, each in itself unlikely, but in aggregate amounting to a strong possibility.

Twenty past. . . . It came almost without intuition. The light hiss of tires suddenly audible, a leap of the heart, a tearing scrape of brakes, lasting the barest fraction of a second, and then the crash.

Adams had rolled over on to his side, near the middle of the road. Not far from the back of the car, another two or three yards and he would have landed on the top. Tim shone the torch on to his face. It was covered with blood and dust. There was an open wound on the front of the skull, from which blood was gushing. His right arm was bent in an impossible position.

Gingerly Tim turned him over, unbuttoned his shirt. The heart seemed to be beating, or was it his own madly racing pulse, communicating itself to the feel of the inert body? Never mind; no time to take chances. Tim straightened himself, gripped the torch more firmly, stepped back half a pace.

He knew where to aim. He wiped it clean with his handkerchief, and dropped the handkerchief by the body. Some how now; Adams would never speak again.

What next? Rapid action; the letter could wait, but all traces of foul play must be removed at once. He had some difficulty in finding one of the pins, it had been dragged out of the earth, and torn from its fastening to the wire.

The wire was not obvious unless one was looking for it.

Eventually he retrieved it, within a few yards of the car; he coiled up the whole apparatus and thrust it into the box under the seat. Time enough to dispose of it finally tomorrow.

He stamped down the earth where the stakes had been driven in, until he was satisfied no trace of the hole remained. The large stone by which he had marked the spot decided on he placed near the middle of the lane, to account for the accident. The bicycle had fallen against the bank on the right; he left it where it lay. Now for the letter.

But Tim had barely got down to the body for the second time before a light flashed in the lane above. It was Robson, the farm laborer in the cottage above, who came hurrying round the bend. Impossible to rifle the pockets of the body now; Tim rose to meet him.

"Adams, ain't it, sir?" said Robson.

"Yes," said Tim. "I'm afraid he's dead."

"I knew he'd break his neck one of these days. I heard him whizz past just now, as I have many a time before, and then a crash. Yes, his number's up, Mr. Kennedy, or I'm a Dutchman. Proper mess, poor beggar. How did you get here so quick, sir?"

"I was driving home. I must have been just in front of him."

"How'd you reckon it happened? He didn't crash into your car?"

"No, it wasn't that. It may be he saw the car, thought he couldn't pass it at that speed, and braked too suddenly."

Robson's eyes fell on the stone. He indicated it with his torch.

"That's got something to do with it, I'll say. Wonder how it got there. We'd better get him to my cottage, sir, then you can drive for the doctor. Though I guess he's past doctors, poor chap."

Tim saw it was urgently necessary to make a move. Crowds collected round accidents, in the most unlikely spots, and once there was a crowd, control of the situation would be taken out of his hands.

"Yes, we'd better move him," he said. "But I think The Wilderness will be better."

World At A Glance

The Italian government needs money so badly that it recently resorted to a capital levy to get more of it, dispatches tell us.

Now, a capital levy must be very unpleasant to capital.

A tax on income is disagreeable enough. Even the few dollars that I have to pay on mine makes me ache. Still, I pay it, since there is no escape, and more or less forget it, as water on its way over the dam. But I do try to see that a small reservoirful accumulates behind the dam, and I feel that that really belongs to me. If the government undertook to begin dipping into this little puddle, I am bound to say that I would consider it an overdoing of matters. I can, because I must, stand taxation on what I am getting, but what I've GOT (or gotten, if one wants to be technically grammatical) seems to me to be mine, permanently.

A SIZABLE AMOUNT

So I can sympathize mildly even with multi-millionaires, who resent the ideas of having the tax collector go "back of the returns," so to speak, to soak them for 10 per cent more (that is the rate mentioned in cables from Italy) than

the collector himself had considered reasonable—in fact, oppressive.

Ten per cent is a sizable chunk, by the way—enough to be disorganizing to business.

I myself do not believe in letting a mere heir profit, indefinitely, from an estate that he had nothing to do with creating.

TOO MUCH OF A LOAD?

The original creator, however, perhaps was doing something publicly useful.

Probably it is undesirable to overdiscourage him.

Putting the brakes on him is judicious in some cases, doubtless, but STOPPING him may not be such good judgment.

Now, William S. Knudsen of General Motors maintains that capital's taxation has nearly reached the point of confiscation. I am prepared to believe it. If my small income is oppressively "soaked," it seems likely that big business' income, with its rising scale of levies, is overly loaded.

PROMOTE ENTERPRISES

I suppose this sounds reactionary.

Yet heaven knows that, in my small way, I always have been regarded as a proletarian.

I certainly have been a single-taxer and, what goes with it, a free trader.

There isn't enough of this philosophy left to wad a shotgun, but, in its day, it was deemed radical. All the same, its keynote was: "Never handicap enterprise!"

"BAD TAXATION"

My father was a friend of Henry George and, later, of Tom L. Johnson.

His theory was that America's early fairly regular prosperity was due, largely, to its relative lightness of taxation.

In his day, and my own youth, assuredly we were more prosperous, on an average, than at present; it was primitive, but it was actual. We hadn't the sanitary plumbing, the autos and today's gadgets, but, so-so, we were on an equality.

It is not true now. Has bad taxation anything to do with it?

Some authorities think so—and that its badness has not been improved on lately.

OPEN LETTERS

TO LUTHERANS

FOLK: There is no need for me to urge you to participate in the celebration scheduled for Sunday in which the 125th anniversary of Lutheranism in Pickaway county will be observed. Every member of the congregation will be in the proper place when the morning service begins. All will remain during the day. It is wonderful for an organization to have served a community for 125 years, and the service that your congregation has provided has meant much to the success of the city and county. Lutherans will be present from many parts of Ohio to participate in the service, which, I am sure, will be of interest to all. Congratulations go to Dr. G. J. Troutman and his son and assistant, the Rev. G. L. Troutman, for the splendid work they are doing, and to the congregation for the support it is giving its pastors.

CIRCUITEER.

TO BUSINESSMEN

MERCHANTS: The request of the Chamber of Commerce that concession stands in next Fall's Pumpkin Show be placed back to back in the center of the street should receive serious consideration by the show society. After all, the merchants of our city should have a very loud voice in just how the annual festival should be conducted. It is pointed out that curbsings would remain open so that visitors to the show would be enabled to see store windows without going from corner to corner in order to pass from the middle of the street to the business houses. The plan bears merit and deserves official attention. The civic organization took additional steps to keep the Pumpkin Show the third week in October by adopting a resolution against setting earlier dates. The weather this year was bad, but there is nothing to keep it from being just as disagreeable the first of October as the third. The celebration is conducted for the benefit of all. Circleville merchants donate much money to finance it, and they should be consulted before anything definite is done about any radical changes in the festival.

CIRCUITEER.

TO MAYOR-ELECT CADY

OFFICIAL: You deserve congratulations for the splendid showing you made in Tuesday's election. On Jan. 1 you will begin a two-year term as Circleville's No. 1 citizen, and I hope you much success. Your statement, issued Wednesday after your election was assured, was very pleasing to all your constituents. You thanked Democratic and Republican friends for aiding you in your election, and rightfully, because many members of both parties came to your assistance. But it was not this statement that pleased the citizens of Circleville so much. Your pledge for economy and efficiency will be remembered by all who read it. Circleville hopes you will give it an administration that will be remembered for many years. You should exercise care in selection of your safety and service directors, because they have important duties. You are assured co-operation of your council and of other city officials who will serve with you. Hopes for a successful administration are high.

CIRCUITEER.

TO SPORTSMEN

NIMRODS: The first event of the Pickaway County Bird Dog club's annual Fall field trials was run Friday. More events are scheduled for Saturday and Sunday. The trials are being held near Yellowbud. Few Circleville residents, except those connected with sportsmen's organizations, realize what fine trials this organization presents. Outstanding bird dogs from throughout Ohio and nearby states participate in the various events. If you are interested in fine hunting dogs it is well worth your time to attend the trials. The club is to be congratulated for its fine exhibitions. The success of the trials is shown clearly by the increasing entry lists.

CIRCUITEER.

TO WALKER BAUGHMAN

FRIEND: The thousands of persons who have been your theatre's patrons for many years were pleased to learn of your remodeling and redecoration program. The Grand Theatre is known throughout central Ohio. It has offered some of the finest stage shows ever available, including John Vogel's and Al. G. Field's presentations. It has always tried to provide the best in motion pictures. You are making a wise investment in installing new seats, a new lobby, restrooms and other improvements.

CIRCUITEER.

TO CIVIC ORGANIZATIONS

MEMBERS: Committees of the American Legion are making plans for the observance of Armistice Day next Thursday. A parade will be staged and members of fraternal, civic and patriotic organizations are asked to participate. They should take part in the activities and assist the Legion in presenting a fitting observance. In past years some of the organizations have given very little co-operation. Legionnaires have taken an active part in civic programs and they deserve the assistance of Circleville organizations for their Armistice day parade and the activities in Memorial hall following the parade.

CIRCUITEER.

TO PARENTS

CITIZENS: Circleville's children enjoyed their Halloween celebration last week-end in a much more quiet manner than they have in many years, but there remains today much evidence of the work of a few. It is the paraffin that can be found on many residence and store windows throughout the city. You should make every effort to prevent your children from "soaping" with paraffin. It is difficult to remove once applied to glass. Not only does paraffin leave a streak, but so often it has been dropped to the ground with a result that stones imbedded in it oftentimes scratch windowpanes.

World At A Glance

—By—
Charles P. Stewart

The Italian government needs money so badly that it recently resorted to a capital levy to get more of it, dispatches tell us.

Now, a capital levy must be very unpleasant to capital.

A tax on income is disagreeable enough. Even the few dollars that I have to pay on mine makes me ache. Still, I pay it, since there is no escape, and more or less forget it, as water on its way over the dam. But I do try to see that a small reservoirful accumulates BEHIND the dam, and I feel that that really belongs to me. If the government undertook to begin dipping into this little puddle, I am bound to say that I would consider it an overdoing of matters. I can, because I must, stand taxation on what I am getting, but what I've GOT (or gotten, if one wants to be technically grammatical) seems to me to be mine, permanently.

A SIZABLE AMOUNT

So I can sympathize mildly even with multi-millionaires, who resent the ideas of having the tax collector go "back of the returns," so to speak, to seek them for 10 per cent more (that is the rate mentioned in cables from Italy) than

the collector himself had considered reasonable—in fact, oppressive.

Ten per cent is a sizable chunk, by the way—enough to be disorganizing to business.

I myself do not believe in letting a mere heir profit, indefinitely, from an estate that he had nothing to do with creating.

TOO MUCH OF A LOAD?

The original creator, however, perhaps was doing something publicly useful.

Probably it is undesirable to overdiscourage him. Putting the brakes on him is judicious in some cases, doubtless, but STOPPING him may not be such good judgment.

Now, William S. Knudsen of General Motors maintains that capital's taxation has nearly reached the point of confiscation. I am prepared to believe it. If my small income is oppressively "sucked," it seems likely that big business' income, with its rising scale of levies, is overly loaded.

PROMOTE ENTERPRISES

I suppose this sounds reactionary.

Yet heaven knows that, in my small way, I always have been regarded as a proletarian.

I certainly have been a single-taxer and, what goes with it, a free trader.

There isn't enough of this philosophy left to wad a shotgun, but, in its day, it was deemed radical. All the same, its keynote was: "Never handicap enterprise!"

DIET AND HEALTH

Pilot Is Tested Before He Takes to Air

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

I KNOW a man who was a good enough aviator during the war to be appointed an instructor, who refuses to fly a plane today even for short distances under the best of weather conditions. His attitude gets support from such an experienced flight surgeon as Dr. Isaac Jones in his interesting book, "Flying Vistas", just published. "The veteran transport pilot of 1937," writes Dr. Jones, "with his plane loaded with passengers and mail and express, steers a course that would have been confusing to any pilot of the war era. Any war aviator who has not progressed with his flying, cannot pilot the modern commercial transport plane."

For this responsible work, the candidate for pilot must pass a rigid examination as to his physical fitness, particularly as regards his eyes and ears. One experienced pilot said, "The engine quit on me at 10,000 feet. I saw below me a nice green field. But I want you cads to know that it takes a long time to come down 10,000 feet, and by the time I got near it, the green field had grown up into a forest."

The aviator, you can see, has to develop all sorts of visual accomplishments that are unknown to people in the ordinary walks of life. He gets a depth perception test. Facing a box about 200 feet away, he holds two strings which

move a rod back and forth inside the box. There is also a stationary rod in the box, and the test consists in pulling the movable rod back or forth until it is exactly opposite the stationary one. It is hard to do, but practice helps.

Need Eyes to Penetrate Fog

What we ought to do is to develop eyes that will penetrate fog, and see the mountains behind it, as the infra red rays do.

Ear tests on the pilot have more to do with that part of the ear that has control over the sense of equilibrium. As a matter of fact, in the evolutionary sense, that part of the ear is the oldest. The most primitive ear we find in the animal kingdom is a little sack with a stone in it, rolling about on sensitive hairs. For millions of years, animals in the primeval seas could sense motion but they could not hear. This part of the primitive ear evolved into our semicircular canals, the sense organ of equilibrium and of knowledge of what position the body is in space. Did you ever stop to think that even with your eyes closed you know whether you are lying down or standing up, or standing on your head? You have always taken that for granted, but it is performed by a very delicate and intricate mechanism.

That mechanism must be perfect in the aviator. It is tested by the turning chair. If you are whirled in one direction with the eyes shut, 10 turns in 20 seconds, and then open your eyes, they should jerk sideways for about 24 seconds. This jerking is called "nystagmus" and is perfectly normal. If it does not occur, the flight surgeon knows that the candidate will not be able to recognize his position in space, and therefore will be a dangerous pilot.

Looking Back in Pickaway County

FIVE YEARS AGO

Dr. O. W. House, Williamsport, was removed to his home from White Cross hospital where his hip was placed in a cast.

John Hedges, son of Mayor B. T. Hedges, was awarded a silver cross for bravery in the Battle of the Argonne during the World war. Only 112 of these crosses have been awarded.

Frank Karshner, Pickaway township, reported his home entered and $60 in cash and other articles missing.

Circleville high school dropped to the bottom of the South Central League football ladder when the team was defeated by Chillicothe.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lynch will leave next week for New Orleans to attend the annual meeting of the National Bottlers' Assn.

C. Dwight Rector, funeral director in Williamsport, has purchased a new limousine for funeral and ambulance service.

25 YEARS AGO

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Myers, of Tarlton, observed their golden wedding anniversary, Nov. 3. Twenty guests were entertained.

J. D. Dingman, who has manufactured cigars in Circleville for the last three years, has sold his factory to the Wing Cigar Co., Columbus.

Miss Mary Ryan will serve as court stenographer next week during the absence of Mrs. Sue M. Boland.

"I HAVE JUST completed," said Zadok Dumbkopf today, "a stirring human document soon to be published, if I can find a publisher. It is entitled: 'Rise of the Brief Case and its Effect on the American Scene.'"

"Do you know," continued Dumbkopf, "that the number of brief cases seen on downtown streets, office desks, in street cars and railroad trains has grown with alarming rapidity?"

"Well, what is the meaning of this? Have the hundreds of thousands of men you now see carry-

CHAPTER 46

AS TIM awaited the fatal hour, the hands of the clock crept round. At 20 to 10 Tim could stand it no longer. He had suddenly discovered an excuse for action. If the thing was to come to a collision with the back of his car it was necessary that there should be time marks leading down the lane; it would not do just to back the car up from the front gate of The Wilderness.

He put on his hat and coat and returned to the garage, thrust the wire and stakes, together with a heavy mallet, into the back of the car, and drove out. He turned down the lane, speeded a couple of hundred yards along the road from Westbourne, and then made the circuit so as to enter Box lane from the Broadstock road. He drove down the lane very slowly, and pulled up at the point he had decided.

It was now five to 10, and he thought he could get to work. He took his gear out of the car and switched off the lights.

The work did not take him long. The earth on the banks took the stakes easily and held them firmly. He hammered them in nearly a foot without striking rock. The wire was now stretched taut across the roadway at a height of rather over a foot from the ground. By the light of his torch it was plainly visible at a dozen yards' distance, but not obvious unless one was looking for it. Tim kicked it once or twice. It yielded an inch or two, but showed no sign of giving way. He returned to the car, turned out the lights, and sat down at the driving wheel in the dark.

Twice he struck matches to look at his watch. Five minutes past 10. . . Twelve minutes past.

The air was very still; it was likely that the sound of the bicycle would make itself heard in time to give ample warning. Seventeen minutes past now.

Tim began to bite his nails with anxiety. Suppose Adams was really drunk, had sense enough to know it, and was going carefully? . . . Or suppose there was something wrong with his bike, he hadn't taken it, was walking home, or worse, getting a lift?

There were a dozen possible slips, each in itself unlikely, but in aggregate amounting to a strong possibility.

Twenty past. . . It came almost without intimation. The light hiss of tires suddenly audible, a leap of the heart, a tearing scrape of brakes, lasting the barest fraction of a second, and then the crash.

Adams had rolled over on to his side, near the middle of the road. Not far from the back of the car, another two or three yards and he would have landed on his face. Tim shone the torch on to his face. It was covered with blood and dust. There was an open wound on the front of the skull, from which blood was gushing. His right arm was bent in an impossible position.

Gingerly Tim turned him over, unbuttoned his shirt. The heart seemed to be beating, or was it his own madly racing pulse, communicating itself to the feel of the inert body? Never mind; no time to take chances. Tim straightened himself, gripped the torch more firmly, stepped back half a pace.

He knew where to aim. He lifted the torch.

He wiped it clean with his handkerchief, and dropped the handkerchief by the body. Safe enough now; Adams would never speak again.

What next? Rapid action; the letter could wait, but all traces of foul play must be removed at once. He had some difficulty in finding one of the pins, it had been dragged out of the earth, and torn from its fastening to the wire.

The wire was not obvious unless one was looking for it.

Eventually he retrieved it, within a few yards of the car; he coiled up the whole apparatus and thrust it into the box under the seat. Time enough to dispose of it finally tomorrow.

He stamped down the earth where the stakes had been driven in, until he was satisfied no trace of the hole remained. The large stone by which he had marked the spot decided on he placed near the middle of the lane, to account for the accident. The bicycle had fallen against the bank on the right; he left it where it lay. Now for the letter.

But Tim had barely got down to the body for the second time before a light flashed in the lane above. It was Robson, the farm laborer in the cottage above, who came hurrying round the bend. Impossible to ride the pockets of the body now; Tim rose to meet him.

"Adams, ain't it, sir?" said Robson.

"Yes," said Tim. "I'm afraid he's dead."

"I knew he'd break his neck one of these days. I heard him whiz past just now, as I have many a time before, and then a crash. Yes, his numbers up, Mr. Ken."

Robson's eyes fell on the stone. He indicated it with his torch. "That's got something to do with it, I'll say. Wonder how it got there. We'd better get him to the cottage, sir, then you can drive for the doctor. Though I guess he's past doctors, poor chap."

Tim saw it was urgently necessary to make a move. Crows collected round accidents, in the most untidily spots, and once there was a crowd, control of the situation would be taken out of his hands.

"Yes, we'd better move him," he said. "But I think The Wilderness will be better."

MR. H. T. BURNETT

"That is why, when I recently began to suffer from sour stomach, arm and leg pains, headaches, dizzy spells and lots of other troubles due to constipation, I made a careful investigation of several remedies which were supposed to relieve these ailments. I finally chose Vendol because it had been endorsed so sincerely by well known people from all over the State, and because some of my personal friends recommended it."

Now I never have a sign of distress after meals, my muscles are limber and free of soreness, nerves are calm, head is clear, and I feel like my old self again. I'll stake my reputation on Vendol and heartily recommend it to everyone."

OHIO FARMERS' LIFE TENACITY GET PAYMENTS HIGH RATES

1937 Agricultural Idea Is Based On Productivity Of Soil In Use

$9.07 HIGH: $6.12 LOW

Business Stabilization Aim Of Government

COLUMBUS, Nov. 5.—Payments to Ohio farmers participating in the 1937 agricultural conservation program will be made at the maximum possible rate, according to Elmer F. Kruse, chairman, state committee.

Payments in Ohio and all other states are influenced by the productivity of the soil on which changes in farming practices have been made. The whole program is designed to help farmers stabilize their business on a basis that enables them to make a living without ruining the soil on their farms.

Under this plan, the farmer who owns land that is comparatively high in productivity contributes more by cooperating with the program and therefore is entitled to higher payment on the number of acres affected by the changed practices. Farmers on farms of lower producing power receive proportionately lower payments.

The range of payments in Ohio for acres diverted from the crop depleting base will range from $9.07 an acre on the best soils in Henry and Williams counties to $6.12 an acre in some parts of Clermont county. Every other north central and corn belt state except Iowa has lower payments than Ohio in some section.

Mr. Kruse says another factor which will influence payments to Ohio farmers in sugar beet growing areas is the number of pounds of raw sugar recoverable from a ton of beets. For Ohio, this year payments will be based on a recovery of 297 pounds of sugar a ton of beets.

BOY WELCOMES CARROT AND SPINACH ENFORCED DIET

PHILADELPHIA (UP)—Medical men said it was unusual and experienced mothers accepted it as a phenomenon when 12-year-old Morton Mandell said he preferred string beans, carrots and spinach to ice cream, cake and candy.

Morton's preferences are fortunate, because he faces a full year of vegetables, beef broth and dry cereals in order to reduce his weight and pressure on his heart. The boy weighed 172 pounds when he entered Children's Heart Hospital in June, is down to 146 pounds now but must touch 115—normal for his age and height—to be able to abandon his diet.

dark spot appeared on the white enamel of the wooden trim of an arch between their dining and living room; they considered it the head of a termite.

Efforts to capture the insect with a pin failed, but resourceful Mrs. Carpenter brought the vacuum cleaner. The insect was sucked into the dust bag.

Removed from the container, it was found to be an inch and a half long. Comparison with prints of insects in a dictionary proved the bug to be a "pruner."

The "pruner," a native insect, bores holes in oak trees, deposits its eggs and the larvae when they hatch pour out of the tree.

Carpenter believed the "pruner" hatched from eggs deposited in a tree before the timber was cut into flooring for his home. The insect, hatching, bored through the original oak to freedom, into the pine trim and through the thick layer of enamel.

50,000 TO BE IN STANDS AS OHIO STATE AND INDIANA TEAMS MEET

BIG TEN CREWS LOSE IN CLOSE GRID CONTESTS

Hoosiers' Defeats Come At Hands Of Minnesota and Nebraska

EXTRA POINTS COSTLY

Bucks Must Stop Davis and Filchcock

COLUMBUS, Nov. 5—(UP)—Two teams separated from grid-iron greatness by extremely narrow margins collide here tomorrow when Ohio State tangles with Indiana in a headline Big Ten battle.

A crowd of approximately 50,000 fans was expected to witness the 22nd renewal of a series that had its beginning in 1901.

Ohio State lost an opportunity to be ranked as the current No. 1 team of the nation when it failed to convert two extra points in its battle with Southern California.

Indiana has knocked at the door of greatness throughout the season, but hasn't been able to crash through the barrier. The Hoosiers played championship ball early in the season as they met the Golden Gophers of Minnesota, but nevertheless dropped a 6 to 0 decision. Last week they gave another of the country's top-flight elevens, Nebraska, a demonstration of real power but were beaten again, this time by a 7 to 0 count.

Ohio Favored

Ohio State was ranked the slight choice over the Hoosiers. The betting on the contest was "even money and seven points" on the Bucks.

Ohio has been installed as the favorite primarily because while the Hoosiers played their hearts out in the losing Nebraska contest, the Bucks took things easy and romped to a 39 to 0 victory over Chicago.

Impartial observers feared Indiana tomorrow would find itself in the same spot it did a year ago when Nebraska and Ohio were met on successive week-ends. The Cornhuskers were given a great battle, but Indiana finally succumbed 13 to 9. The following week against Ohio, the Hoosiers were "dead on their feet" and played listlessly.

On his arrival here today Coach A. N. (Bo) McMillin expressed hope the performance of 1936 would not be repeated.

"We had an extremely tough game at Nebraska and it was a hard contest to lose. However, with few exceptions we emerged in good physical condition and I believe we will be ready for another top-notch exhibition against Ohio State. The boys are determined to spill some team that is favored over them and it may as well be the Bucks."

The Hoosiers placed their main hopes for victory upon a pair of the brightest backfield stars to be developed in the Big Ten this season, Frank Filchcock and Corby Davis.

Filchcock is the key around which Indiana's dangerous aerial attack is built and Davis is the spearhead of the running attack.

Kinderline Strong

The outstanding lineman of the Hoosier team is Captain "Dick" Kinderline, the left end. Kinderline is on the receiving end of most of Filchcock's aerials.

Convinced that Indiana is the biggest hurdle to be taken in the march to a Western conference championship, Ohio State has been drilled harder during the past week than anytime this season.

The Bucks' starting lineup will be the same as has been given the nod throughout the campaign. Alex Schoenbaum, the bull-necked tackle who received an ankle injury against Chicago, is fit again.

The only other Buck player who has been on the injured list is Forrest Fordham. Fordham is ready to play again, but it isn't likely the Toledo sophomore will be used unless an emergency arises.

The probable starting lineups:

Ohio State Pos. Indiana

Crow L.E. ... Kinderline

Schoenbaum ... L.T. ... McDaniel

Maggied L.G. ... Sirtosky

Wolf (CC) C. Miller

Zarnas R.G. ... Olmstead

Referee: Frank Birch (Earlham); Umpire, Ernie Vick (Michigan); Lineman, E. C. Krieger (Ohio University); Field Judge, Dr. R. W. Huegel (Marquette).

TIGERS INVADE LOGAN TONIGHT FOR GRID GAME

Contest Under Lights To Be Started At 8 O'clock; Boys Leave At 5

LINEUP TO REMAIN SAME

Two Frays Remain On Red and Black Schedule

Circleville high school gridders, in a good condition despite their 35-0 defeat at the hands of Greenfield last week, were ready this afternoon to invade Logan to meet the Chiefs of that city.

Logan has a good team, but not too strong for the Red and Black. Jackson was beaten 6-0 last week, but several weeks ago Wellston, mentored by Ivan Davis, former Circleville coach, drubbed the Hooking county crew.

No changes are likely in the Tiger lineup, Coach Jack Landrum intending to stick by Jackson and Fickard at ends, Merriman and Liston at tackles, Arledge and Garner at guards, Junior Martin at center, Paul Walters at quarter, Woodward and M. Walters at the halves, and Marvin Jenkins at fullback. Noggle will be ready for service at full and Rooney will be

OHIO U. BOBCATS BANGED UP FOR CINCINNATI TILT

ATHENS, Nov. 5 — A badly battered squad of Ohio university gridders are ready for the Cincinnati game Saturday. Although the Cincinnati outfit has had rather a luckless season, the Bobcats are worried about Saturday's contest, fearing a letdown after the tough Marshall tilt and a reversal of form by the Bearcat squad which hasn't as yet found its stride.

The Peden men will again place the burden of their offense on the shoulders of little Johnny Montgomery, sensational halfback who was mainly responsible for knocking Marshall's powerhouse out of the nation's select circle of undefeated and untied teams.

It is quite likely that Andy Mruzik, regular center, Bill Jurkovic, regular quarterback, and Stan Caruso, guard, will not be ready for the Cincinnati tilt.

The Cincinnati game is always interesting because way back in 1896 the Ohio U. first football squads used to absorb an annual beating at the hands of some good University of Cincinnati teams. The Bobcats have won 17 out of 27 games since that time, but since the inauguration of the Buckeye Conference in 1925 the lone U. C. victory came in 1933, while the games were played in 1927 and 1934.

The team will leave in private automobiles about 5 p. m. The game is scheduled at 8.

Although Friday was not at all suited for football because of the rain, many Circleville fans were ready to follow the team to Logan. Two games remain on the Tiger schedule, Grove City here next Friday, and Urbana there the following week. Ellsworth Trego, of Commercial Point, is the Grove City coach.

SOVIET RUSSIA CLAIMS MANY DEVELOPMENTS SINCE REVOLUTION OF 1917

CELEBRATION TO BE HELD SUNDAY IN RED NATION

Many Achievements Noted As Officials Discuss New Advantages

MOSCOW, Nov. 5 — (UP)—Twenty years after the revolution in 1917, the Soviet Union is considering its achievements in the establishment of a proletarian, socialist state and proclaiming them good.

The anniversary occurs on Sunday, when the red army and millions of workers will march in triumphal celebration of the revolution which established Bolshevik rule over one-sixth of the globe.

Soviet authorities lay claim to these achievements in the 20-year period:

Socialism has been realized, a backward agricultural nation has been made into a powerful industrial state, the class structure of the populace has been leveled, and illiteracy and disease to a great extent overcome.

The national income has been quadrupled, labor productivity increased threefold, agricultural production greatly increased and Soviet industry given a high place among ranking nations of the world.

The story is largely one of figures—figures which speak of bloodshed, civil war, periods of starvation, human misery and human exaltation in the performance of a task.

Socialist economy now dominates all but an infinitesimal fraction of Soviet activity. Of national income, 99.1 percent comes from socialist economy. Soviet statistics show that 99.8 percent of the gross output of industry and 97.7 percent of the gross output of agriculture come from socialized plants and farms.

Retail trade is 100 percent socialized. The bourgeoisie and Kulaks (rich peasants) have been eliminated, according to Soviet figures on the class structure of the nation. Workers and employees, including those on state farms and machine-tractor stations, comprise 37.9 percent of the population.

The number of state farms has been reduced. Ninety-three percent of all farms have been collectivized. They number 243,700, comprising 18,500,000 former individual farms. The sowing area has been 99.1 percent collectivized.

Heavy industry increased its production 7,300,000,000 rubles over 1913 and 11,700,000,000 rubles over 1917. (Soviet financial statistics use as a base the ruble valued in prices of 1926-27, when the ruble was technically pegged at about 50 cents. It is now 20 cents.)

Soviet industry as a whole claims to have gained first place in Europe and second place in the world in two decades.

The following claims are made: Gross output of industry, which was fifth in the world and fourth in Europe in 1918, was second in the world and first in Europe in 1936. Machine building, agricultural implements, tractors, combines, were first in Europe and second in the world.

Automobile production ranks sixth in the world and fourth in Europe, but the automotive industry, including truck production, on which Soviet efforts have been concentrated, was second in the world, first in Europe.

As compared with the world and Europe, production of electrical energy ranks second and third; coal fourth and third; iron ore second and first; steel third and second; crude oil sixth and second; gold second and third; super-phosphates third and first; beet sugar first in each.

Since 1913, railroad trackage has increased from 36,248 miles to 52,685 miles, car loadings threefold from 27,400 cars in 1913 to 86,200 in 1936.

NOTRE DAME MEN AFTER REVENGE FOR 26-0 DEFEAT

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 5 — (UP)—Notre Dame's Irish take on the second half of one of the toughest football jobs of the year tomorrow when they battle Pittsburgh in the Nation's No. 1 game.

Beating Minnesota and Pitt on successive Saturdays was regarded as a well-nigh impossible feat for Notre Dame after a tie with Illinois and a loss to Carnegie Tech, but the Irish have completed half the job by knocking off the Gophers, 7-6. Now the unpredictable Irish will try to trip Pitt, unbeaten but tied by Fordham, before 56,000 in Notre Dame's brick stadium tomorrow. The crowd will be the largest ever to see a game in South Bend.

Betting odds favor Pitt 6-5 or even money and seven points. Pitt has scored 130 points while yielding only 14, all to Carnegie Tech last Saturday. Notre Dame has scored 44 points and allowed 22.

The game will terminate football relations between Notre Dame and Pitt, and there are many reasons why each wants to close out the series with a triumph. Word is out that Dr. Jock Sutherland of Pitt is anxious to have his boys roll up an impressive score.

The Notre Dame players, most of whom took a terrific physical beating when Pitt walloped them last year, 26-0, for one of the worst defeats ever suffered by the Irish, are anxious to wipe out the memory of that drubbing. Many of the Irish have vowed to get their revenge tomorrow.

DAYTON - TOLEDO GAME HEADLINES STATE SCHEDULE

COLUMBUS, Nov. 5 — (UP)—Ohio's collegiate football brigade turns into the final month of its campaign tomorrow and the battle for three coveted championships is still wide open.

The University of Dayton, the state's lone undefeated and untied grid combine, seeks its seventh straight triumph of the season when it meets the University of Toledo at Toledo in the headline contest of a 21 game program that sends 34 of Ohio's teams into action.

Dayton smashed into the spotlight last week-end when it turned in a spectacular 18 to 6 triumph over Western Reserve to break the Red Cats' string of 28 straight unbeaten games.

By virtue of its victory over Reserve, Dayton automatically became the top-ranked choice for the Buckeye conference and the mythical state titles.

Although Dayton is given a decided edge over Toledo, the Rockets rate as a formidable foe. The eleven of Dr. C. W. Spears has been improving rapidly and last week showed to the best advantage of the season when it defeated Wayne 39 to 19.

Toledo has dropped only one contest this season, that by a 21 to 7 margin to Akron. Dayton's chief rival for the Buckeye championship, Marshall, also faces a non-league foe. The Herd plays Centre at Huntington, W. Va.

The remainder of the Buckeye members are engaged in title-bearing games. Ohio University faces the weak University of Cincinnati Bearcats at Cincinnati, and Miami entertains Ohio Wesleyan at Oxford.

JACK M'AULIFFE, LAST OF KNUCKLE FIGHTERS, DEAD

NEW YORK, Nov. 5 — (UP)—The body of Jack McAuliffe, last of the bare-knuckle prize ring champions, lay in state in a Broadway funeral parlor today while newsmen, clerks, politicians and sports figures filed past.

McAuliffe, who retired undefeated from the lightweight throne after a reign of 12 years, died late yesterday of a lingering throat ailment. He was 71.

In his later years, McAuliffe was slightly contemptuous of present day fighters, but he never lost contact with boxing and other sports. His moon face, with a cigar clamped tightly between his teeth, was seldom missing on race days at the New York tracks.

Madigan Blames Girls For Slump Of St. Mary's Team

MORAGA, Calif., Nov. 5 — (UP)—Coach Ed (Slip) Madigan said today a shake-up of his St. Mary's college football team could be attributed to "girl trouble."

"We've been losing games, and some of the boys, I think, have been losing girls. Their work in the last few games and in practice has lacked everything," the coach said.

PURDUE TO TEST FORDHAM'S RAMS IN GOTHAM TILT

NEW YORK, Nov. 5 — (UP)—Purdue's Bollermakers arrive today to "make or break" Rose Bowl hopes of Fordham's Rams in the East's headline football game Saturday.

Only smudge on the Fordham slate is a scoreless tie with Pitt's powerful Panthers, and if the Rams can win from Purdue there will be a resumption of that chant "from Rose Hill to Rose Bowl" so rudely interrupted last year by late-season losses to Georgia and N. Y. U. A tie or a defeat spells oblivion to the prized Pasadena assignment.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

KEEPING PREPARED

WHEN YOU finesse against both a K and a Q, expecting the first trial to lose but the second one to win, you may desire to repeat the successful finesse another time. This necessitates keeping the entry in the hand which leads for the finesse. Such being the case, it is better on the first round of the suit to lead a small card, so that another card from the J-10-9 sequence can remain in the desired hand later.

(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

After South's opening bid of 1-Spade on this deal, North bid 2-Diamonds, South 2-No Trumps and North 3-No Trumps.

The club K was the opening lead against this contract and South did not win a trick in the suit until the third round. His next move was to play the spade 2, which lost to West's Q. West cashed his fourth club and returned a diamond. South won with the A, cashed the diamond Q and overtook the diamond J with the K to cash the diamond 10 and try another finesse in spades. The 5 was led from dummy and the 10 finessed, which held, but it was only possible to get one more trick in spades and consequently the contract was set one.

With only one entry into the dummy, after the club A was knocked out, and hoping for two more finesses, the correct play of spades was to have led the 5 on the first round and finessed the 10. Then when the dummy was entered with the diamond K, the spade 9 could have been led, and if it held another finesse could have been tried from dummy.

COMMUNITY MEETINGS CALLED TO DISCUSS 1938 PROGRAM FOR FARMERS

INITIAL COUNTY SESSION BOOKED ON NOVEMBER 8

Chairman of Conservation Committee Discloses Confab Dates

MILLIONS ARE AVAILABLE

School Buildings Scene of Conferences

Series of community meetings for presentation of the 1938 farm program to rural residents was announced Friday by John G. Boggs, chairman of the county agricultural conservation committee.

Election of the 1938 community committeemen will be conducted at the meetings.

All of the meetings will be held in township school buildings at 7:30 p. m. The schedule follows: Nov. 8, Deer Creek and Wayne; Nov. 9, Circleville—Washington at Washington and Perry at Atlanta school; Nov. 10, Jackson and Madison; Nov. 11, Pickaway; Nov. 12, Monroe; Nov. 15, Muhlenberg; Nov. 16, Darby and Scioto and Nov. 18, Harrison and Walnut.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5—(UP)—Several million dollars in federal government corn loans will be available to farmers in 39 Ohio counties who have co-operated in the soil conservation program, department of agriculture officials said today.

The funds would come from the $75,000,000 made available to the Commodity Credit Corporation by the R.F.C. for loans ranging from 44 to 50 cents a bushel.

The loans will bear four percent interest and will be available between December 1, 1937 and April 1, 1938. They will mature in 10 months and are expected to prevent early glutting of markets by farmers forced to seek cash.

Counties in which loans will be made include: Allen, Auglaize, Butler, Champaign, Clark, Clinton, Crawford, Darke, Defiance, Delaware, Fairfield, Fayette, Franklin, Fulton, Greene, Hancock, Hardin, Henry, Highland, Logan, Madison, Marion, Mercer, Miami, Montgomery, Paulding, Pickaway, Preble, Putnam, Ross, Sandusky, Seneca, Shelby, Union, Van Wert, Warren, Williams, Wood and Wyandotte.

THEATRES

AT THE CLIFTONA

Another of those masterpieces of motion picture art, still an all time pleasure for theatre-goers, opens tonight on a double feature program with "Trigger Trio" at the Cliftona theatre. Based on the life of Jim Fisk, "The Toast of New York" is a gripping and entertaining dramatic romance, its high emotional appeal being in its love theme—the flamboyant courtship of fascinating Josie Mansfield by the financier.

Frances Farmer is ideally suited to the role of Josie Mansfield, the woman for whom Fisk tries to solidify his financial empire by gaining a corner on the world gold market. Her pleasing contralto is heard in three songs, one of which is "Sweet Alice Ben Bolt," a classic of the post-Civil War era.

Edward Arnold steps into the 1865 frock coat and square-toed boots as naturally as did Fisk himself in his heyday of big railroad stock manipulation when Commodore Vanderbilt, Daniel Drew and others battled with him to gain leadership of the financial world. Arnold again proves that he is the most able cinema portrayer of strong-hearted figures.

Presbyterian Church Plans Special Armistice Service

Sunday school will begin promptly at 9:30 o'clock followed by the worship hour beginning at 10:30 o'clock.

It rained all afternoon and the original crowd of 100,000 was nearly dispersed before the results were announced.

When Hanson took off his glasses and started down the quarter-mile rows he hadn't so much of a gallery sloshing along in the mud after him, yelling and shouting, as did the favorites. He wasn't interested, either, in showing off to the crowd and tossing half cleaned corn just to prove that he could keep one or two ears in the air, or rattling against the wagon's bangboard, at one time.

"When it started raining," he said, "I knew it was going to be hard on the fellows who didn't shuck clean, so I used a little extra care in getting the husks off. Rain on a husk is just like water on a blotter, and the more those husks weigh, the more you lose."

The runner-up yesterday was Cecil Vining of Baldwin, Kans., who husked 1,248.55 pounds net. Layton Roberts, Mendon, Mo., was third, with 1,241.52 pounds; Jock Wolles, Coleman, S. D., fourth, with 1,151.24.

"Isn't it possible Wagner went to take medicine and in his dizziness took poison instead?"

"I say to you frankly, I believe there is arsenic in the body of Jacob Wagner. But I don't know how it got there and no evidence has been produced by the state to help you decide that most important point."

No Purchase Shown

Hoodin pointed out that the state had not shown where Mrs. Hahn had purchased any arsenic. He read a valentine which Mrs. Hahn sent to the late Albert Palmer, 72. It spoke of their "cherished friendship." He said it was a "true word of comment on their relationship."

Hoodin charged that the condition of George Heis, termed by the state "the only living victim of Mrs. Hahn," was not due to arsenic poisoning but to "drinking too much home brew."

Earlier, Hoodin had revealed that he received three anonymous telephone calls threatening him in event Mrs. Hahn is acquitted.

A fine of $100 and costs was imposed on Arthur Seymour, 27, of 294 W. Goodale street, Columbus, Friday, by Mayor W. J. Graham on an assault and battery charge filed by Albert Giffin, Circleville.

The charge, officers said, grew out of a fight back of an E. Main street beer parlor Thursday night. Giffin, police said, suffered a cut on the head when he was alleged to have been struck by a bottle. Seymour was committed to the county jail when he failed to pay his fine and costs.

He was arrested in Pontius Lane.

Licenses will be granted when one-third of the court's sentence has been served.

COMMUNITY MEETINGS CALLED TO DISCUSS 1938 PROGRAM FOR FARMERS

INITIAL COUNTY SESSION BOOKED ON NOVEMBER 8

Chairman of Conservation Committee Discloses Confab Dates

MILLIONS ARE AVAILABLE

School Buildings Scene of Conferences

Series of community meetings for presentation of the 1938 farm program to rural residents was announced Friday by John G. Boggs, chairman of the county agricultural conservation committee.

Election of the 1938 community committeemen will be conducted at the meetings. All of the meetings will be held in township school buildings at 7:30 p. m. The schedule follows: Nov. 8, Deer Creek and Wayne; Nov. 9, Circleville—Washington at Washington and Perry at Atlanta school; Nov. 10, Jackson and Madison; Nov. 11, Pickaway; Nov. 12, Monroe; Nov. 13, Muhlenberg; Nov. 14, Darby and Scioto and Nov. 15, Harrison and Walnut.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5—(UP)—Several million dollars in federal government corn loans will be available to farmers in 39 Ohio counties who have co-operated in the soil conservation program, department of agriculture officials said today.

The funds would come from the $75,000,000 made available to the Commodity Credit Corporation by the R.F.C. for loans ranging from 44 to 50 cents a bushel.

The loans will bear four percent interest and will be available between December 1, 1937 and April 1, 1938. They will mature in 10 months and are expected to prevent early glutting of markets by farmers forced to seek cash.

Counties in which loans will be made include: Allen, Auglaize, Butler, Champaign, Clark, Clinton, Crawford, Darke, Defiance, Delaware, Fairfield, Fayette, Franklin, Fulton, Greene, Hancock, Hardin, Henry, Highland, Logan, Madison, Marion, Mercer, Miami, Montgomery, Paulding, Pickaway, Preble, Putnam, Ross, Sandusky, Seneca, Shelby, Union, Van Wert, Warren, Williams, Wood and Wyandotte.

THEATRES

AT THE CLIFTONA
Another of those masterpieces of motion picture art, still an all time pleasure for theatre-goers, opens tonight on a double feature program with "Trigger Trio" at the Cliftona theatre. Based on the life of Jim Fisk, "The Toast of New York" is a gripping and entertaining dramatic romance, its high emotional appeal being in its love theme—the flamboyant courtship of fascinating Josie Mansfield by the financier.

Frances Farmer is ideally suited to the role of Josie Mansfield, the woman for whom Fisk tries to solidify his financial empire by gaining a corner on the world gold market. Her pleasing contralto is heard in three songs, one of which is "Sweet Alce Ben Bolt," a classic of the post-Civil War era.

Edward Arnold steps into the 1865 frock coat and square-toed boots as naturally as did Fisk himself in his heyday of big railroad stock manipulation when Commodore Vanderbilt, Daniel Drew and others battled with him to gain leadership of the financial world. Arnold again proves that he is the most able cinema portrayer of strong-hearted figures.

there was. I'm guessing, but if we are dealing with guessers, let's have a lot of them.

"Isn't it possible Wagner went to take medicine and in his dizziness took poison instead?"

"I say to you frankly, I believe there is arsenic in the body of Jacob Wagner. But I don't know how it got there and no evidence has been produced by the state to help you decide that most important point."

No Purchase Shown

Hoodin pointed out that the state had not shown where Mrs. Hahn had purchased any arsenic. He read a valentine which Mrs. Hahn sent to the late Albert Palmer, 72. It spoke of their "cherished friendship." He said it was a "true word of comment on their relationship."

Hoodin charged that the condition of George Heis, termed by the state "the only living victim of Mrs. Hahn," was not due to arsenic poisoning but to "drinking too much home brew."

Earlier, Hoodin had revealed that he received three anonymous telephone calls threatening him in event Mrs. Hahn is acquitted.

A fine of $100 and costs was imposed on Arthur Seymour, 27, of 294 W. Goodale street, Columbus, Friday, by Mayor W. J. Graham on an assault and battery charge filed by Albert Giffin, Circleville.

The charge, officers said, grew out of a fight back of an E. Main street beer parlor Thursday night. Giffin, police said, suffered a cut on the head when he was alleged to have been struck by a bottle. Seymour was committed to the county jail when he failed to pay his fine and costs.

He was arrested in Pontius Lane.

Sir Samuel has visited many British prisons recently, and will visit others. A prison commissioner is reporting on foreign prison conditions.

It is understood that the proposed reforms include abolition of penal servitude, and the substitution of detention in settlements, where trades and a "civic sense" will be taught; abolition of ticket-of-leave, convicts being given the right to earn absolute remission of sentence; a system of release on license from detention sentences, where a "cure" of criminal habits is thought to have been made. Licenses will be granted when one-third of the court's sentence has been served.
